

Graduate School of International Policy & Management

Dean's Seminar Series (Special Session)

Date: Thursday, 4/29/2010

Time: 12:15 - 1:45 p.m.

Venue: McGowan 100

Team Monterey El Salvador

How Relevant Are the GSIPM Curricula: Perspectives From the Field

Team Monterey El Salvador has recently completed its fourth consecutive year as an integrated development practicum providing Monterey Institute students the opportunity to apply learned skills and knowledge in a dynamic real-world setting. This special seminar invites the Team Monterey 4 Leadership Team and Program Director Adele Negro to share their insights and assessments on the courses and curricula of the relevant GSIPM programs, reflecting on classroom knowledge that was most pertinent and applied in the field, as well as identifying knowledge gaps and offering new ideas for program development.

Open to the MIIS Community

The Dean's Seminar Series showcases the work of the GSIPM faculty that defines academic excellence at the Monterey Institute, highlights distinct competences of the GSIPM programs, and provides valuable perspectives and skills to our learning community. The series places an emphasis on the introduction of faculty members and their works that have a significant potential to be leveraged across the family of programs at GSIPM.

Faculty members interested in presenting in the series please contact the Dean directly.

Forthcoming Seminar in the Series

Professor Maha Baimyrzaeva

Shortcomings of Institutional Reform in Public Sector Governance

Date: Thursday, 5/13/2010

Time: 12:15 - 1:45 p.m.

Venue: McGowan 100

Email: Nina.Dutra@miis.edu

Monterey Institute of International Studies

An affiliate of Middlebury College